Help Ellis' Daddy raise £100,000 to find a cure for Ellis

Richard Page is cycling 3,500 miles to all of Leicester City's Sky Bet Championship away games to raise money for his son, Ellis, who suffers from MECP2 Duplication Syndrome

The condition means that Ellis may never walk or talk, and suffers from chest infections and seizures, brought on by epilepsy.

Sky Bet, the title sponsor of the Football League, are backing Richard as he tries to raise £100,000 for the text"ellis" campaign.

With these funds, research can begin into finding a cure for Ellis, after an exciting breakthrough led to the reversal of MECP2 Duplication Syndrome in mice.

THANKS FOR COMING DOWN TO THE JOHN SMITH'S STADIUM FOR TODAY'S GAME AGAINST BOLTON WANDERERS.

I think the performances in our last two games have been good. Middlesbrough's ability was highlighted by their win at Brighton last weekend, a result that shows that any team can beat another in the Championship. After that, to go to a top six team in Reading, perform like we did and be disappointed to come away with only a point is a positive.

Today we host Bolton and I'm looking for more of the same. I want everybody fit and firing, because we want to pick up as many points as possible between now and the end of the season. We're working really hard with the likes of James Vaughan and Joel Lynch and hopefully we will have everyone available.

I am desperate to beat last season's points tally, which is a challenging task as I write these notes. The key to doing that is to perform to our optimum level as often as possible in our remaining seven games, starting this afternoon.

Also, at some point, I would like to give opportunities to those younger players that deserve it in order to give them a taste of the standards that are required for our First Team. We've got some players who might get the opportunity before they expect it, whereas others – the likes of Duane Holmes and Harry Bunn – have had a little taste already.

In the main, the challenge there is down to the players; I need them to show me they are ready and they warrant that opportunity. They need to be 'at it' every single day in training – I want them banging down my door demanding a place in the team through their performances. If they do that, the pathway exists for them here.

Our opponents today have been in good form in 2014 on the back of bringing some new players in; the likes of Alan Hutton, who is an established international with Scotland, and Lukas Jutkiewicz, who spent some time here in the earlier stages of his career. Add those to the likes of Jermaine Beckford and Neil Danns, who we know well from their spell here last season, and it's fair to say that Bolton have some top Championship players.

I'm sure they had high aspirations at the start of the season after finishing the last campaign so strongly, but it has been a tough season for Dougie and the Club. However, they will be a real handful today.

We have to enjoy that challenge. We're playing another side that has the potential to be in the top six of this division today and we have to try and take the game by the scruff of the neck from the off.

Thanks for your support.

FROM THE BOARD

THANKS FOR COMING TO THE JOHN SMITH'S STADIUM FOR TODAY'S SKY BET CHAMPIONSHIP GAME AT HOME TO BOLTON WANDERERS.

In my last programme notes, I spoke about the terrific seasons the Club's Under-21 and Under-18 sides were enjoying and I'm delighted to be able to congratulate the Under-18s on finishing first in the Professional Development League 2 North. In terms of results, we couldn't ask for more from both age groups this season; they have both finished top of their respective divisions.

As most Town fans will know from the communication that the Club regularly puts out, youth development is at the heart of our plan for Huddersfield Town. One of our big targets is to see Academy graduates excelling for the First Team in the Championship; both home-grown players who have been with the Club from a very young age and others who are recruited at age 16 and above.

Of course, just like all of you, we also want to see the First Team win every single game it plays in and we recognise that, in light of this goal, it is sometimes difficult to give opportunities to untried young players. However, our Manager knows that he has my backing – and that of the entire Board of Directors – to use the opportunity we have during the rest of the current season to try and give our youngsters this opportunity when he deems the time is right.

It is important that you all know and understand this, because I believe you have a vital role to play on this front. When Mark chooses to give our youngsters an opportunity at First Team level, it is very important that our supporters really get behind the players and the team. It is almost inevitable in football that the team will have spells in games and over the course of the season when things don't go our way, but knowing that the fans understand and support our philosophy removes some of the risk involved in giving the Club's young players a chance to shine.

“IT IS VERY IMPORTANT THAT OUR SUPPORTERS REALLY GET BEHIND THE PLAYERS AND THE TEAM.”

Today we host Bolton and I'd like to welcome the Directors, officials and supporters who have made the relatively short journey from Greater Manchester for the game. Although we come into the match without a win in our last six fixtures, our performance at Reading warranted all three points and we come into today with real momentum and optimism.

“OUR PERFORMANCE AT READING
WARRANTED ALL THREE POINTS AND WE COME INTO TODAY WITH REAL MOMENTUM AND OPTIMISM.”

As per the Barnsley game earlier this year, we'll have a 'singing section' in the Fantastic Media Lower Tier this afternoon. Hopefully it can make a positive impact on the match day atmosphere again today – and help us repeat the scoreline from that day!

Get behind the team and enjoy the game.

JOE LOLLEY

Football has always been Joe Lolley's first love; however it wasn't until as recently as last summer that the Redditch-born winger set his sights on making his football dream a reality.

Despite spending his youth at two Premier League clubs, the 21 year-old always saw the sport as a hobby.

It wasn't until he went for a trial at Kidderminster Harriers last summer that Lolley switched onto the idea. In the nine months since, he secured his first professional contract with the Harriers, impressed watching Football League scouts before making the move to the Terriers in January.

Speaking to Give Us An H, Lolley cast his mind back a year to when he was just your standard second year university student, who wasn't a bad footballer.

"I was studying Sports Coaching at the University of Central Lancashire and at the time I wasn't doing that well; I had lost my motivation for the course," he said.

"On Saturdays I would travel home to play for Littleton and during the week I would play for the University. Someone involved with the Uni team put me forward to play for the England University's team, which was good to be a part of. When I look back I was just living the life of a normal student."

Lolley had flirted with professional football as a youngster having spent time in the West Bromwich Albion and Birmingham City Academies, but it was his own physical development that put paid to his hopes of earning a pro deal.

"When I was 15 I was only about 5 feet tall, but during the next year of my life I shot up about nine inches and my body just gave up on my back and knees," explained the winger. "I played a handful of games that season and I was just constantly in pain; I was basically injured for the entire season."

"Birmingham didn't want to offer me a scholarship, but they wanted me to continue training. It meant that I was training on an evening with the age group below and I just wasn't going anywhere; it wasn't enjoyable."

"After about a month I packed it in and didn't play football for about a year. I have always loved football, but at that point in my life going to watch my team Aston Villa was more enjoyable. I didn't want any restrictions on my football, so I just went and played with my friends."

Lolley burst back on to the non-league scene in 2011 when he joined Midland Combination side Littleton. He scored 88 goals in 83 appearances and for a small time partnered current Leeds striker Matt Smith in attack.

"The standard wasn't very good," he admitted. "There were some decent players and some even got paid, but on the whole it wasn't fantastic. We had a good team at Littleton and achieved promotion a few times and won a couple of cups."

"Sometimes we would play a side who just weren't up for it and I remember in one game that I scored six goals. 99% of the matches were well contested, but there were the odd couple when I would score four or five. I should have been on a goal bonus!"

Despite his incredible scoring record, Lolley was worried that he wasn't good enough to make the step up, something that affected him when he went on trial at Kidderminster. However, being invited for a trial did make Lolley realise that his passion could become a reality, and at that moment his life had come full circle.

"It was a massive leap and one that I didn't think I would be able to make. When I had the trial I was really nervous, I wanted to impress because I didn't want to go back to

To be here now feels like I am starting out again.

"Pre-season is going to be hugely important, especially as it will be my first ever one! When I was at Littleton I used to try and get out of doing pre-season and even then all we did was go running once a week.

"I wouldn't say I was looking forward to pre-season, but I am looking forward to the results and being in the best shape of my life. My fitness at the end of it should be at an all-time high and should help me be a better footballer."

Mark Robins has given the winger a few tastes of Championship football since his arrival and although Lolley believes he has the ability, he knows there is still plenty of development to do.

"SOMETIMES YOU WOULD PLAY A SIDE WHO JUST WEREN'T UP FOR IT AND I REMEMBER IN ONE GAME THAT I SCORED SIX GOALS."

University. At that point my heart was set on being a footballer. It was probably the first time in my life that I had felt like that. When I was at Blues, football was just a hobby."

It didn't take him long to make an impression at the Conference Premier outfit; a hat trick on debut soon made people pay attention: "That certainly made people take note of my name," he said. "After my second or third start the Chairman pulled me into a meeting and said that I should get an agent because he was fielding a lot of calls from clubs.

"I never planned on getting one, I didn't want one, but in October last year I had to because clubs were watching me," he added.

In less than 12 months the winger had catapulted himself from the realms of non-league to one of the biggest and best divisions in Europe. He hasn't got ahead of himself though, as he explained to GUAH.

"It is a new chapter in my life, a new opportunity," he said. "A year ago I was a student that played football for a hobby; my mind and lifestyle was set-up to continue that.

"There have been times over the last couple of months when I have come on, but my body hasn't felt right. I haven't been involved much over the last couple of weeks because my body is still adjusting. I didn't feel right against Sheffield Wednesday and Doncaster, whereas against Leeds I felt sharp and just wanted to get on the ball.

"I feel confident that I have the ability to succeed, but I know that I have to put a lot of graft in doing extra after training and in the gym to look after my body."

Despite his fleeting appearances in the First Team, Lolley has experienced the atmosphere at the likes of Loftus and Elland Road: "I still do have to pinch myself at times, but I am slowly getting used to it; the lifestyle and culture change has become routine now.

"When I first arrived and was on the bench at QPR, I found that being named on the same team sheet as some of their big names a strange experience. We have got some big names here though with the likes of Adam Clayton and James Vaughan. I am getting used to training every day at a high intensity."

JOE'S TEAM MATES

BIGGEST MOANER

Anthony Gerrard loves to moan on the training pitch; it hasn't been directed at me yet, but I am sure it will at some point.

MOST VAIN

Oscar Gobern sends some terrible Snapchats; they are really cringey.

WORST FASHION SENSE

I don't really know; I haven't seen anybody wearing horrific gear although Daniel Carr has some bad t-shirts. I haven't tried any harder since I moved to the Club; I do have my bad days, though.

HARDEST WORKER

Jonathan Hogg just never stops.

LAZIEST

Many people would say me! Sean Scannell is laid back and some may see that as lazy.

NEXT MANAGER

I imagine the Skipper is preparing to go in that direction. I was also speaking to Anthony Gerrard and he has desires to get into coaching.

MOST SKILFUL

Scannell has great feet and moves the ball really well; he is too quick for me!

SINGER

Definitely not Nahki Wells! We did it together and I have only heard us both sing, so I would have to say that I am the best. I was nervous before going up, but when I heard him sing I didn't mind doing it.

BEST FRIEND

I spend a lot of time with Daniel Carr. He likes to go bowling and we go quite regularly. He loves it that much that he will even go on his own; he is half decent. I also get on with Matt Crooks.

JOE'S BEST XI

Below is his Joe's Best XI of players he has played alongside.

ALEX SMITHIES

My best mate at Kidderminster, Daniel Lewis, was the 'keeper, but I have to say Alex Smithies. His shot stopping is unbelievable; he makes some unbelievable saves.

JOSH GOWLING

I hated training against him at Kidderminster because he was so experienced and just wouldn't give you an inch. He is a very clever defender.

PAUL DIXON

He has been one of the better players since I arrived at the Club. He carries the ball forward well and he has really impressed me.

LEE VAUGHAN

We played on the right together at Kiddy and used to be called 'Alves and Messi'! He loves to get forward and was very good technically.

ANTHONY GERRARD

He has been the mainstay in the team since I arrived. He is an excellent defender and very reliable; he is also good on the ball

SEAN SCANNELL

He hasn't played much, but he has the potential to be one of the better players in the league. He can go past players with ease.

JORDON MUTCH

We played together in the Academy at Birmingham and he was technically a good footballer. He is doing really well in the Premier League this season.

ADAM CLAYTON

His range of passing is unbelievable and he can control the game from the deeper area. He has been one of the most consistent performers since I arrived at the Club.

KYLE STORER

He is one of the best professionals that I have played with and was an excellent captain. He always gave 100% and was a good guy to be around.

MATT SMITH

I played about six games with him at Littleton and together we scored about 18 goals. We played upfront together and at that level he was unplayable.

NAHKI WELLS

It was a toss-up between Nahki and James Vaughan. Both are excellent footballers and good strikers, but I have seen Nahki play more so I will choose him.

ALL SQUARE UNDER THE FLOODLIGHTS

"WE GOT IN THEIR FACES AND STARTED THE GAME REALLY WELL WHICH CULMINATED IN US SCORING, BUT STRAIGHT AWAY WE HAVE GONE ABOUT GIVING THEM A GOAL, WHICH MADE THINGS INTERESTING. WE NEED TO CUT THOSE ERRORS OUT OF OUR GAME BECAUSE ON THE WHOLE WE DID OK."

"I'M VERY PLEASED WITH ALBERT BECAUSE TWO OR THREE WEEKS AGO HE WASN'T GOOD BUT HIS REACTION WAS PERFECT FOR ME AND HE SCORED TWO GOOD GOALS. ALBERT IS AN INTERNATIONAL PLAYER AND AN IMPORTANT PLAYER FOR US AND NOW HE KNOWS THE TEAM NEEDS A LITTLE BIT MORE FROM HIM AND TODAY HE WAS PERFECT AND I'M VERY HAPPY WITH HIM."

Coincidentally, Bolton and Town met at this very stage last season.

With seven games of the 2012/13 season to go, Town travelled to the Reebok Stadium in the middle of a relegation battle. Chris Eagles scored the only goal of the game to kick start a three match winning streak for the Wanderers. In total, they won nine of their final 14 games of the season and missed out narrowly on goal difference for a place in the Play-Offs.

Bolton's season this time around has followed a very similar pattern to last term. They were slow out of the blocks once again and any hopes of promotion were a distant memory around New Year.

However, Dougie Freedman's men have picked up 15 points from a possible 24 and although a late surge for the Play-Offs looks highly unlikely, it isn't outside the realms of possibility.

Like last season, a lack of firepower has proven costly for Bolton. Last term, only Chris Eagles (12) managed to get into double figures in the league, whilst the likes of David Ngog (8) and Kevin Davies (6) failed to supply.

A Bolton player is yet to break into double figures in the league this time around. Marquee summer signing Jermaine Beckford has scored six goals in 16 starts; whilst on loan Cardiff man Joe Mason has four in 11.

Matters in front of goal have started to improve of late though, following the acquisition of Middlesbrough forward and former Terrier loanee Lucas Jutkiewicz. The on loan striker has six goals in 12 league starts and has been pivotal in Bolton's recent upturn in form.

AWAY DUGOUT

Dougie Freedman has endured a difficult period as Bolton Manager after leaving Crystal Palace.

The former Scotland international had been in charge of Palace for 21 months, taking over from George Burley in January 2011, whom he had previously been assistant to.

In his first managerial role, the Glaswegian initially helped steer the Eagles away from the relegation zone and then in his first full season in charge enjoyed a memorable run to the League Cup semi-finals, toppling Manchester United at Old Trafford along the way.

The Selhurst Park club made a promising start to the 2012/13 season, with Freedman collecting the Manager of the Month accolade for September after the Eagles went undefeated throughout the month.

Freedman began his managerial career at Palace as the reserve team manager in 2007, taking on the role alongside his playing duties and he would undertake a similar position at Southend United following his move in 2008.

As a player, Freedman was twice capped by Scotland, making his debut against Latvia at Hampden Park in October 2001 scoring the equaliser in their 2002 FIFA World Cup qualifier, before making one more appearance in a friendly against France.

The striker was on the books of QPR as a youngster before he later joined the London club in 1995 scoring 20 times in his opening season, which included an 11 minute hat-trick against Grimsby Town.

Freedman would play an integral role in Palace's promotion to the Premier League in 1997 when he scored crucial goals in the 89th and 90th minutes of their Play-Off Semi-final tie with Wolves, as the Eagles went on to beat Sheffield United 1-0 in the Wembley Final.

Following spells at Wolves and Nottingham Forest, Freedman would return to Selhurst Park in 2000 under manager Alan Smith and scored the vital goal against Stockport County on the final game of the season to ensure the London club avoided relegation and remained in the second tier of English football.

In all, Freedman would register over 350 appearances during his two spells with Palace scoring 95 goals over the 10 year period. The Scotland striker would also represented Leeds United and Southend United during a 16-year playing career.

LUKAS JUTKIEWICZ

Striker Lukas Jutkiewicz sparked life into his own form and the form of Bolton's attackers when he joined on loan in late January.

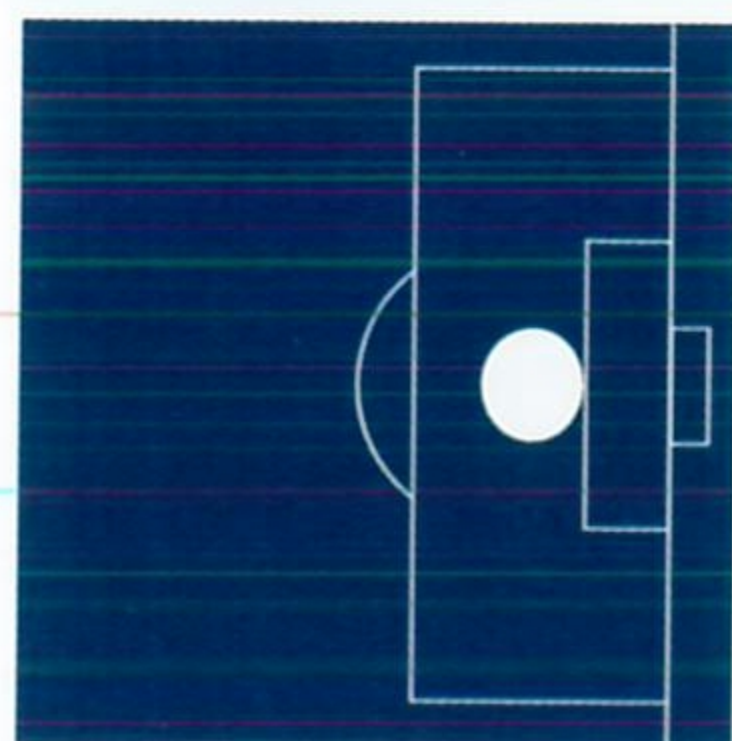

The former Huddersfield Town attacker scored six goals in his first 12 starts for the Trotters. The 24 year-old failed to score during a loan spell with Town in 2009, but went on to score 12 in 27 for Motherwell and 18 in 59 for Coventry.

His form earned him a £1.3m move to Boro where he scored ten goals in 26 appearances in his first full season. Despite two goals in his first three games of this season against Accrington and Charlton, the striker failed to score in five months of football for Middlesbrough.

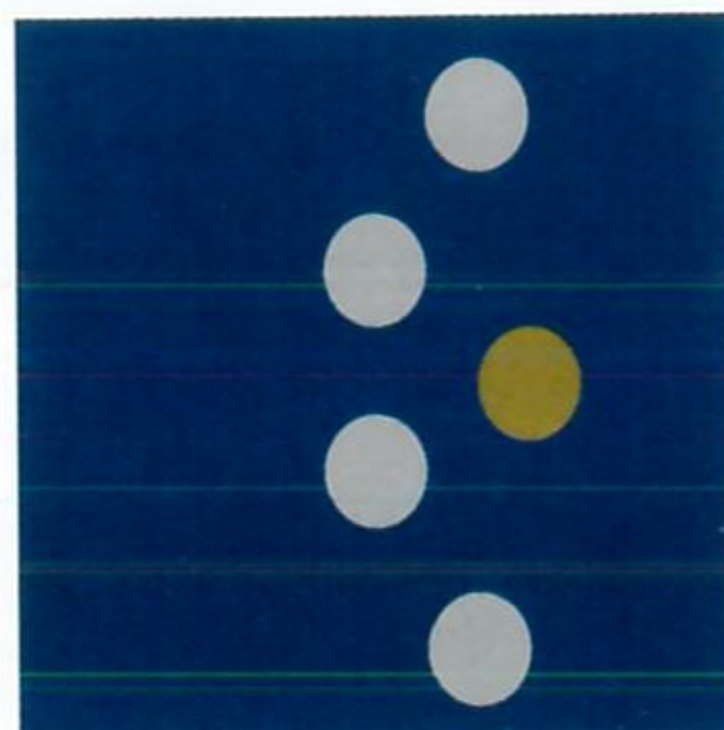

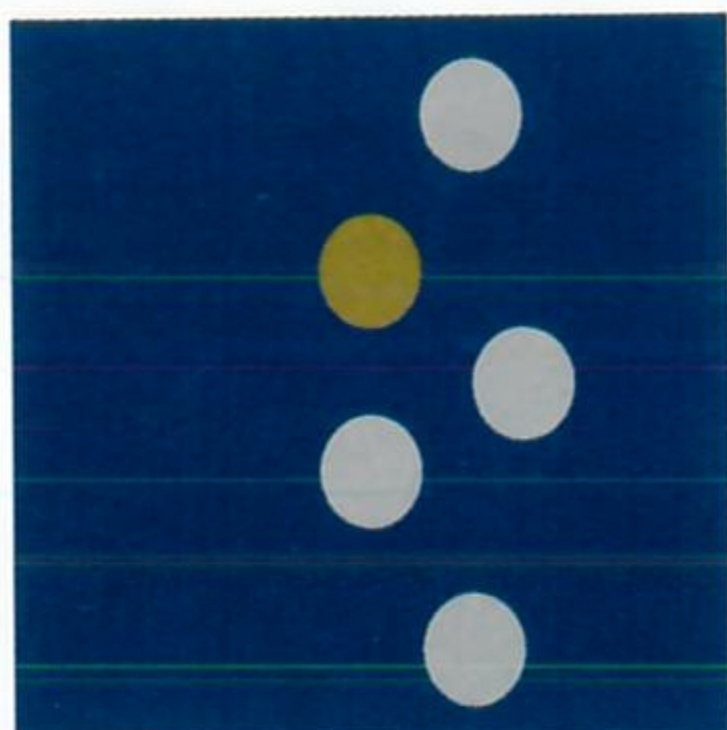

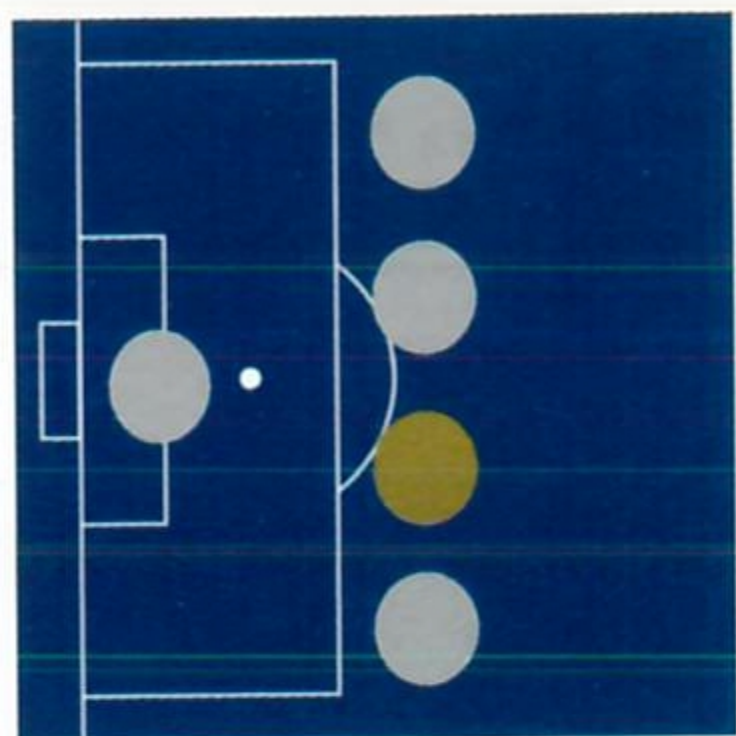

Jutkiewicz spent three years in the Southampton Academy as a junior before later joining Swindon Town in 2005. He made his debut as a 17 year-old in the 2005/06 season, but it wasn't until the following season, against Walsall, that he scored his first senior goal. He scored a further four goals as Swindon gained promotion to League 1.

The striker proved a costly acquisition for Everton in 2007. They paid £1m for his services, but Jutkiewicz failed to score for the Toffees and after his loan spell with Coventry joined the Sky Blues for an undisclosed fee.

Now at Bolton, the striker's threat in the air could pose Town with their biggest problem.

THE KEY THREE

ALEX BAPTISTE

Central defender Alex Baptiste has been a virtual ever present in the Bolton side following his free transfer from Blackpool last summer.

After impressing at Mansfield, the 28 year-old joined Blackpool in 2008 and was a key part of Ian Holloway's side that achieved promotion to the Premier League. He scored on the opening day of the Premier League season and was subsequently named in the Team of the Week.

Baptiste has scored four goals this season in 40 appearances and has recently returned from suspension.

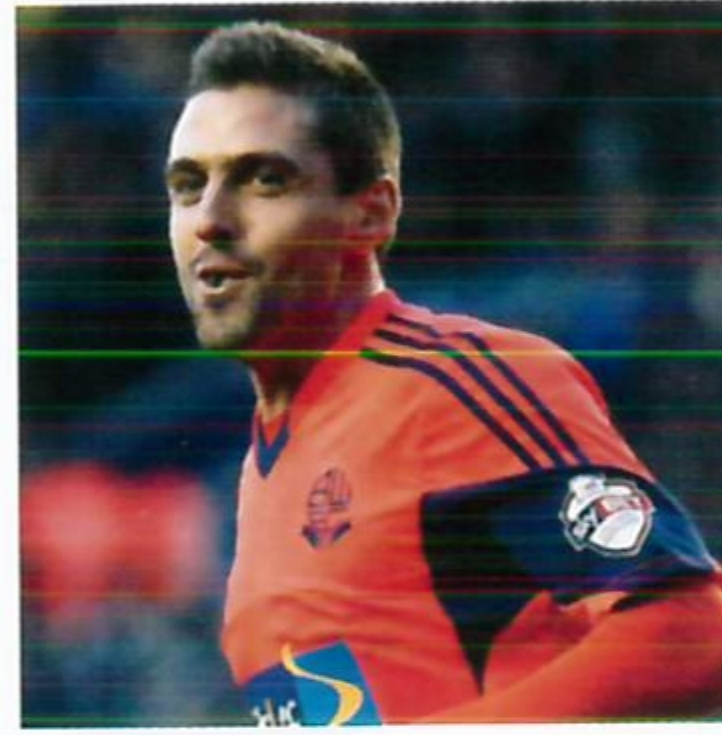

NEIL DANNS

Town fans know exactly what to expect from Neil Danns today.

The combative midfielder gave his all in the Terriers' successful fight against relegation last season despite suffering with a toe injury. This season, he is again on loan from Leicester City and has been a regular for Bolton.

The 31 year-old, who can play in the centre or on the right of midfield, has scored four goals in 20 league starts for Dougie Freedman's men. Danns is a highly experienced operator at this level and won promotion to the Premier League with Birmingham.

ANDRE MORITZ

Cultured attacking midfielder Andre Moritz has provided seven of Bolton's goal tally this season.

Dougie Freedman had initially signed Moritz at Crystal Palace last season; the Brazilian scored five goals and played over half an hour of the epic 120 minute Play-Off Final against Watford.

The 27 year-old's career began in his native country with Internacional and Fluminense. He later signed for three Turkish clubs before going in search of football in Britain. Moritz enjoyed a trial at Glasgow Rangers in August 2012 before signing for Palace later that month.

SQUAD ANALYSIS

Jermaine Beckford could return to the starting line-up to face the Terriers. The former Town loanee has missed the last few weeks through injury, but is now fully fit.

Defender Alex Baptiste could also be involved after serving his suspension, however both Mark Davies and Joe Mason are doubtful having withdrawn from last weekend's match day squad.

Matt Mills is unlikely to play with a knee injury, whilst Stuart Holden (knee), Joe Riley (knee), Marc Tierney (foot) and Darren Pratley (shoulder) are all out.

With injuries in the forward area, Lukas Jutkiewicz's form since joining from Middlesbrough has been refreshing for Dougie Freedman. The attacker has netted six goals in 12 starts and is likely to be flanked by Chung-Yong Lee and Ryan Hall.

IN THE MIDDLE JEREMY SIMPSON

This season will be Simpson's second full campaign on the Football League referees list and today's game is the second Town game that he has refereed.

This term he has showed 83 yellow cards and five reds; he showed seven yellow cards in his last outing.

WHAT THE FANS THINK

@BranstonMark

I expected Bolton to be heading to Play-Offs or straight up not for Town to be above them; it's either they have gone down or we've gone up

@Mickeycurtis17

I think they are underachieving, should be looking at top half of table, key men? None apart from Beckford, probably

Darren Shaggy Wormald

They have a squad capable of hurting anyone on their day, but they like us have been very inconsistent this season. They favour a direct style of play and look to be strong and physical. It will be a battle but if we play with the pace we know we have it's a very winnable game

REWIND

The Town players celebrate Zat Knight's own goal

BOLTON 0 - 1 TOWN

Tuesday 3 December 2013 | Championship

Oliver Norwood settled a tense encounter at the Reebok with a stunning long range goal to earn the Terriers their first victory in Bolton in 45 years.

It was the midfielder's second long range goal in a matter of days and earned Town a fully deserved three points.

Alex Smithies had received as much of the praise from Mark Robins in Town's recent victories as his strikers and the stopper was in red hot form during the first half at the Reebok.

The Academy graduate made two superb stops within a minute of one another to make sure that the Terriers went in at half-time level. The 23 year-old spread himself well to deny Andre Moritz before palming Matt Mills' bullet header wide from the resulting corner.

Former Terrier Jermaine Beckford wasted two good opportunities to steal a point during the final stages, but he hit and headed wide when well placed.

TOWN 2 - 2 BOLTON

Saturday 8 December 2012 | Championship

It was action all the way in a rip-roaring Roses clash which was a real pleasure to watch.

And despite Bolton boss Dougie Freedman's claims, a draw was probably the right result.

It was James Vaughan who returned from injury to rescue a point for Town. The on loan Norwich man smashed in the equaliser with four minutes remaining after Mark Davies and Chris Eagles had given the visitors the lead.

The Terriers started well and took the lead when Zat Knight turned Oliver Norwood's corner into his own goal. Bolton responded well in the second half and would have been out of sight had it not been for Alex Smithies' superb save from Chris Eagles' spot kick.

There could well have been a home winner though, because James Vaughan came mightily close five minutes into the six added on.

PLAYED FOR BOTH

A look at three players who have worn the colours of both clubs

SCOTT SELLARS

Six years of Scott Sellars' career was spent playing for Huddersfield Town and Bolton. The left footed midfielder joined the latter in 1995 for £750,000 and made over 100 appearances in the Premiership and Football League.

In 1999, after four years with Bolton, Sellars joined Town on a free transfer and made well over 50 appearances for the Terriers, scoring two goals. Now 48, the former Leeds and Blackburn midfielder was assistant manager at Chesterfield before joining the coaching set-up at Manchester City Academy.

MATT GLENNON

Bolton fans never got the chance to see Matt Glennon turn out for the Wanderers. The 'keeper, now 35, began his career with them in 1997 before leaving three years later without making an appearance.

When Glennon arrived in Huddersfield in 2006, the stopper had turned out for eight clubs from Bristol Rovers to St Johnstone. Glennon, who is the current No1 at Halifax, made over 100 appearances for the Terriers before being replaced in the starting line-up by Alex Smithies.

SIMON CHARLTON

Charlton made over 100 appearances for both Town and Bolton during his 18 year playing career. It all began back in 1989 when the full-back made his professional debut for the Terriers; he would go on to make over 150 appearances in all competitions.

The combative defender was 28 when he joined Bolton where he went on to achieve promotion to the Premier League. He started 108 times in the league for the Wanderers before moving to Norwich. His career came to an end in 2007 when he retired at Oldham.

STEVE EYRE: A DESERVED DEFEAT

Steve Eyre felt his side deserved to lose to Birmingham City in Monday afternoon's Professional Development League 2 North match, despite taking a two goal lead.

Four unanswered efforts from Blues striker Akwasi Asante earned his side an away victory against Town, who were recently crowned winners of the league.

The defeat is only the Terriers' second of the season and came after a deflected Matt Crooks effort and a strike from Paul Mullin had given Town an early two goal lead.

Defender Joel Lynch, who had surgery last month to rectify a groin injury, made his first appearance since undergoing the operation alongside Joe Wright in defence. The former Nottingham Forest defender played 64 minutes of the clash before being subbed.

Speaking post-match, Eyre said: "I am disappointed. Obviously losing football matches is part and parcel of football and the lads will have to get used to that as their careers progress. However, how you lose football matches is key to how they move forward.

"After a fantastic start full of intensity and quality, which culminated in us scoring early two goals, we started to think about how many goals we would score. From that moment the intensity went out of the game and we lost the core values that are required to win a football match.

"Our effort dropped and our play became clumsy and our young, hungry opponents worked harder than us," Eyre continued. "All credit to Birmingham, but I have just said to the players that sticking to the core values wins your matches. Formations and styles of play change like fashion, but things that will never go out of fashion are the core values of hard work, tackling, marking and making forward runs and after the first ten minutes we failed to do that. We deserved to get beat."

IT'S A NUMBERS GAME...

NUMBER 38

There aren't too many Huddersfield Town players who have worn the number 38 shirt above and beyond Duane Holmes, however, Surinamese defender Ken Monkou held the shirt in the 1999/00 season.

Monkou in action during his time at Town

KEN MONKOU - 1999/2000

It proved to be only a fleeting visit, but former Premier League central defender Ken Monkou turned out for the blue and white of Town.

He made 25 appearances in total with 23 of them coming in the number 38 shirt. He even scored, although the celebrations were short lived! The defender opened the scoring at Barnsley in 1999 only for the Tykes to record a 4-2 victory with Darren Barnard netting a brace at Oakwell.

Born in Suriname but raised in the Netherlands, Monkou's first major side was Feyenoord. He moved to England in May 1989 to join Chelsea for £100,000 and in doing so became the first player to move to England from outside the Commonwealth of Nations since Peter Borota in 1982.

He made an impressive start for his new side and capped his first season at the Club with the Player of the Year award; he was also part of the side that won the Full Members Cup.

Despite signing a five year contract with Chelsea in 1992, just three months after he had put pen to paper he joined Southampton for £750,000. The defender was regularly involved in Premier League relegation battles during his time on the south coast, but never suffered the disappointment.

The now 49 year-old joined Town in 1999 but after disagreements with manager Steve Bruce, parted company with the Club and returned to Chelsea, where he later retired from the game.

Following his retirement, Monkou ran a pancake house in the Dutch city of Delft and was actively involved in Dutch media.

2004/05 Away Shirt

Town's promotion in the 2003/04 season saw them jump from Division Three to League 1 as a result of Division One being renamed the Championship.

Pawel Abbott's first ever senior hat trick at Port Vale in September was scored in 13 minutes of the second half. This is thought to be the third fastest ever recorded for the Club after Brian Stanton's six minute hat trick achieved on 3 March 1928.

The 2004/05 season saw the Clarke brothers (Nathan and Tom) appear on the team sheet for the first time. It was the first time two brothers had appeared for Town since the Sodje brothers.

In the victory over Blackpool in February the Town team's average age was 21.27 years, reported to be the youngest ever to represent the Club.

Within the space of the last nine games of the season, Town went from relegation possibles to finish within a point of a Play-Off place. The eight victories and a draw equals the Club's strongest ever end to a season, shared with 1919/20.

BEHIND THE SCENES

BARCLAYS 'BANK' ON TOWN

Worldwide brand Barclays Bank is the latest organisation to become an official commercial partner of Huddersfield Town.

With over 300 years of history and expertise in banking, Barclays – which has a branch in Market Street, Huddersfield – has joined forces with 'The Yorkshire Club' to focus on community engagement via the Town Foundation and business relationships via the Club's commercial activities.

This official partnership is an extension of the work Barclays has already undertaken with the Town Foundation, the Club's official registered charity, within the last 12 months.

On the business side, Barclays staff will become a presence in the prestigious White Rose Club and Spring Partners Suite on Huddersfield Town match days, with the unmistakable Barclays brand being advertised on the John Smith's Stadium Big Screen too.

Stuart Stocks, Senior Barclays Business Manager, was part of the panel at the 'Buy Kirklees' Huddersfield Town Enterprise Academy event recently.

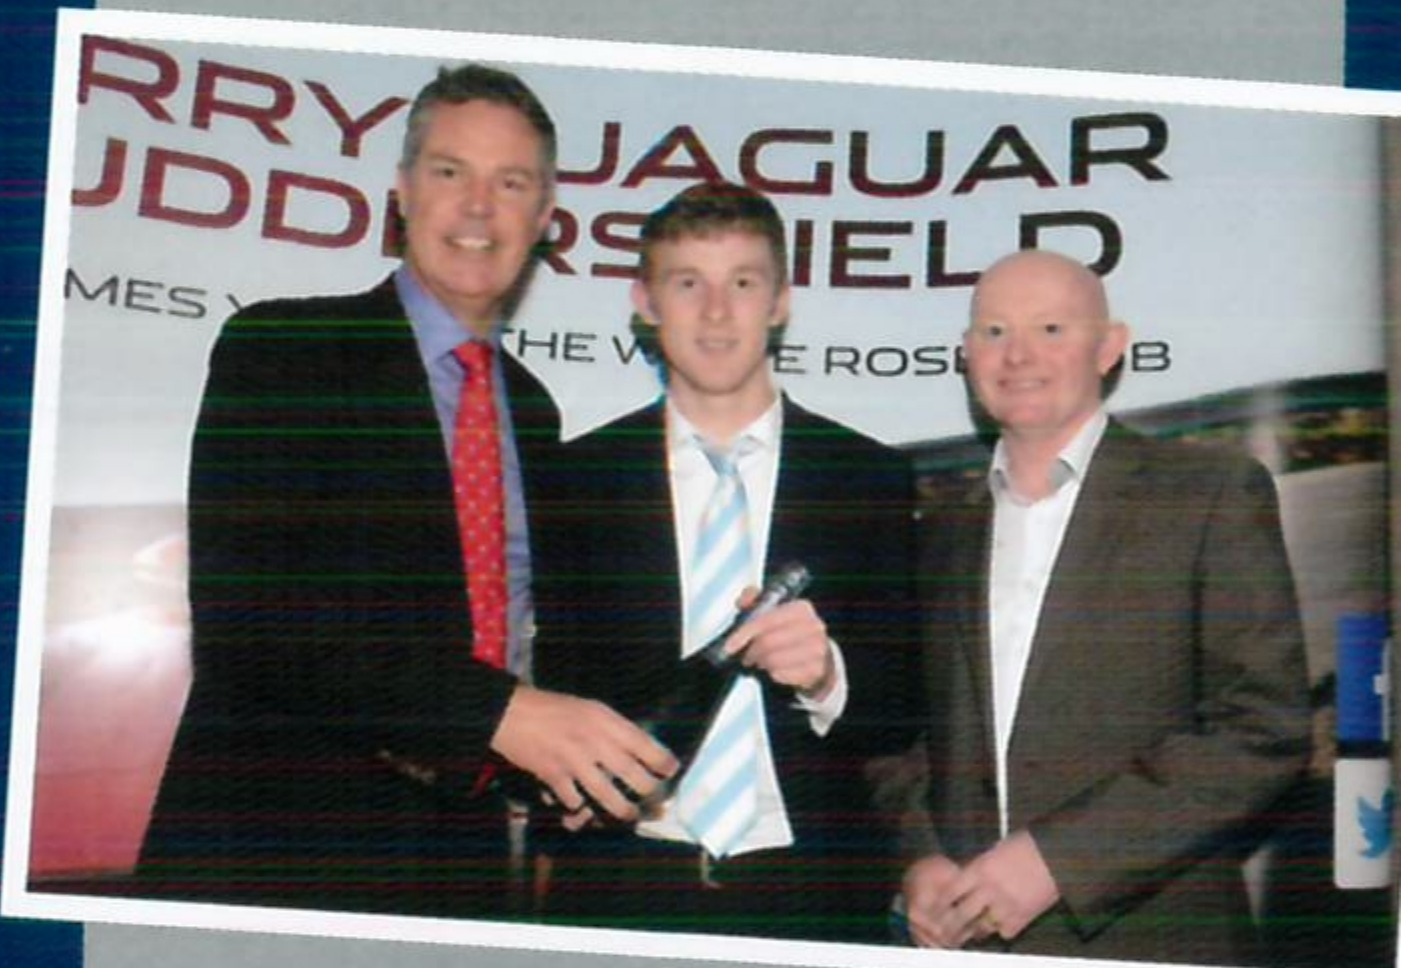

Recently staff from Barclays held a Financial Clinic for Town's squad at PPG Canalside, encouraging them to prepare for life after their playing careers are over.

A VOTE FROM THE GOAT

It is probably fair to say Shaun Goater is Bermuda's best-known sporting export but he is convinced that soon compatriot Nahki Wells will overshadow him.

The former Manchester City and Rotherham striker – known as 'The Goat' – made a huge mark in English football but he is certain that Wells has what it takes to eclipse his achievements.

Goater is optimistic about his prospects because he believes Wells has found the right club to maintain his upward mobility and the ideal manager in the shape of his former Manchester United colleague Mark Robins.

"Everyone in Bermuda is really proud of Nahki and the way he has been moving up in the football world," Goater told GUAH.

"I see no reason why he can't eventually help Town challenge for promotion and get a place in the Premier League and that would propel him to become the brightest star Bermuda has had both here and back home.

"He's been doing superbly. He's flying the Bermudian flag very well. He is pushing on and he's moved up to the next level, which he deserves because he did very well in some big games at Bradford and he did well consistently. It's good to see he's got off to a good start with Huddersfield.

"I know from personal experience that it is a great club. I had some great times at Huddersfield, especially when I came up against Peter Jackson in my early days at Rotherham in those Yorkshire derbies when I was learning my craft."

Goater is sure that Wells will go up in the world because he chose to stay in Yorkshire.

"Huddersfield was the perfect moved for Nahki," Goater said. "It is a solid footballing club which is looking to consolidate its Championship status before having a crack at getting into the Premier League. He knows the people and the personnel because he's stayed in Yorkshire and so the fans will be similar folk.

"It would have been different if he'd moved down South. As it is, Huddersfield still has that Yorkshire grit. The fans like their skilful players but they also like players who are brave, wholehearted and have a never-say-die attitude so they will love Nahki.

"That's a good thing as well because they will know what Nahki achieved at Bradford and what he's capable of on the field because they're neighbours. It's always the case that you keep on eye on your rivals and no one could have missed what a great job he did at Bradford.

"I was very pleased he went to Huddersfield. He seems to have settled in but that's no surprise to me because he is a bright footballer and a very good one at that."

Goater is adamant Robins is the right manager to ensure Wells continues to flourish.

"Nahki is in good hands with a former striker as his manager as well and he will make sure he really kicks on," Goater said.

"Mark is a student of the game so he won't take four or five situations to figure something out. He is smart and the future looks bright for Mark, Nahki and Huddersfield Town as a whole.

"I was at a function where I was sat on his table prior to his move to Huddersfield and I was telling him that I thought Huddersfield would suit him down to the ground because I knew Mark Robins having played with him at Manchester United in my early days after coming to England.

"But also more importantly I felt it would be a wise move because I knew how Huddersfield played. I enjoyed their style of football and knew it would suit him down to the ground because they like to get the ball down and play. I knew they'd create plenty of opportunities for Nahki."

Goater has been keeping tabs on Wells since he first emerged for Bermuda Hogges.

"I first noticed Nahki when I was coaching two rival teams back in Bermuda. I was looking at one of my coaching notebooks a couple of months ago when we came up against his team and I had notes about Nahki," Goater said.

"They said he had an eye for goal. Notes for team; can't switch off because he has an eye for goal. Both left and right footed. Clever player who knows how to get into space to get his shots off. Notes to defenders: have to be at best to stop him."

Goater, who lives in the Manchester area, is busy with media work but is aiming to break into coaching, and the staff at the Manchester City Academy are helping him learn the ropes as a coach.

He is also hoping to come and watch Wells behind-the-scenes at Huddersfield to further his own education.

"I only saw Nahki play at Bradford twice and I went to watch him train and I told him I'd come and see him at Huddersfield but only after he's settled in and acclimatised to his new surroundings," Goater said.

"Mark and I were good friends when we played together and he said to give him a call anytime. You need time to settle in and find a routine and adapt to the new system but I'm looking forward to seeing how things work behind the scenes at Huddersfield."

Goater is not the only Bermudian monitoring Wells.

"Bermudians here and back home will already be following Nahki Wells's every move very closely," Goater said.

"Football is the No1 sport in Bermuda. When I was a kid we used to dream of playing in England and scoring the winning goal in the 89th minute of the FA Cup final at Wembley. I bet Nahki was the same.

"The English Premier League has a huge following. Loads of people wear Man United, Man City, Liverpool, Arsenal, Spurs and Chelsea tops and there is loads of friendly banter. If Nahki keeps going the way he is there will be more and more blue-and-white striped shirts in amongst them as well."

Wells now has five Town goals to his credit but Goater believes fans won't have seen the best of him yet.

"Nahki has done a superb job in a short space of time and the great thing about him is that he is humble and that will take him far," Goater said.

"He will need this season to settle in and just hope to make a mark and that's what he's done. He has so much potential. The second season is when he will create a real buzz. I am certain the goals will continue to flow but the fans just need to be patient. From what I can gather they will be."

AWAY DAY DIARY

SATURDAY 22 MARCH 2014 | BLACKPOOL (A) 3PM

Huddersfield Town fans filled the away end at Bloomfield Road last month to watch the Terriers succumb to a disappointing one goal defeat. Town fan John Waterhouse and family were part of the 2000 strong away contingent and as part of our Away Day Diary feature they detailed their day at the seaside.

The usual travelling support by the Waterhouse/Rhodes family is five, but unfortunately for the trip to Blackpool we were down to the bare minimum of true fans. Which meant that our party was made up of myself, my wife Sandra and our eldest daughter Karen.

8am – Depart Appleton Roebuck, near York

9.30am – Arrive at daughter Karen's house at Waterfoot. We left an hour later with the sun shining and the intentions of walking along the promenade to Blackpool Tower.

11.20am – We arrived in a wet Blackpool, but undeterred we headed for the Tower only for a heavy shower to force us to find shelter in a nearby pub.

1.10pm – We left the pub to make our way to Bloomfield Road having enjoyed a superb lunch of fish and chips; rain once again thwarts our walk, though!

2.20pm – Arrived at the Stadium and applaud the team as they come out to begin their warm-up.

2.55pm – The teams come out from the changing rooms and the Town choir starts its repertoire, increasing the volume within the stadium

3.03pm – Disaster strikes as Keith Southern's pass is picked up by David Perkins – a player who has caused us problems before during his Barnsley days – he slides the ball into the path of Ricardo Fuller who places the ball into the corner of the Town goal.

3.39pm – We were dominated for much of the half and made a change just before half-time with Calum Woods replacing Murray Wallace.

3.48pm – Half-time: Blackpool 1 - 0 Town

4.20pm – Despite the introduction of Oliver Norwood and Danny Ward, Town struggled to break down a determined Blackpool defence.

4.50pm – We thought the equaliser had arrived but Nahki Wells was deemed offside. The disappointment spurred Town on and despite encouragement from the singing section, Town could not score and when the referee blew for full-time the relief from the Blackpool supporters was clear to see.

4.50pm – Full-time: Blackpool 1 - 0 Town

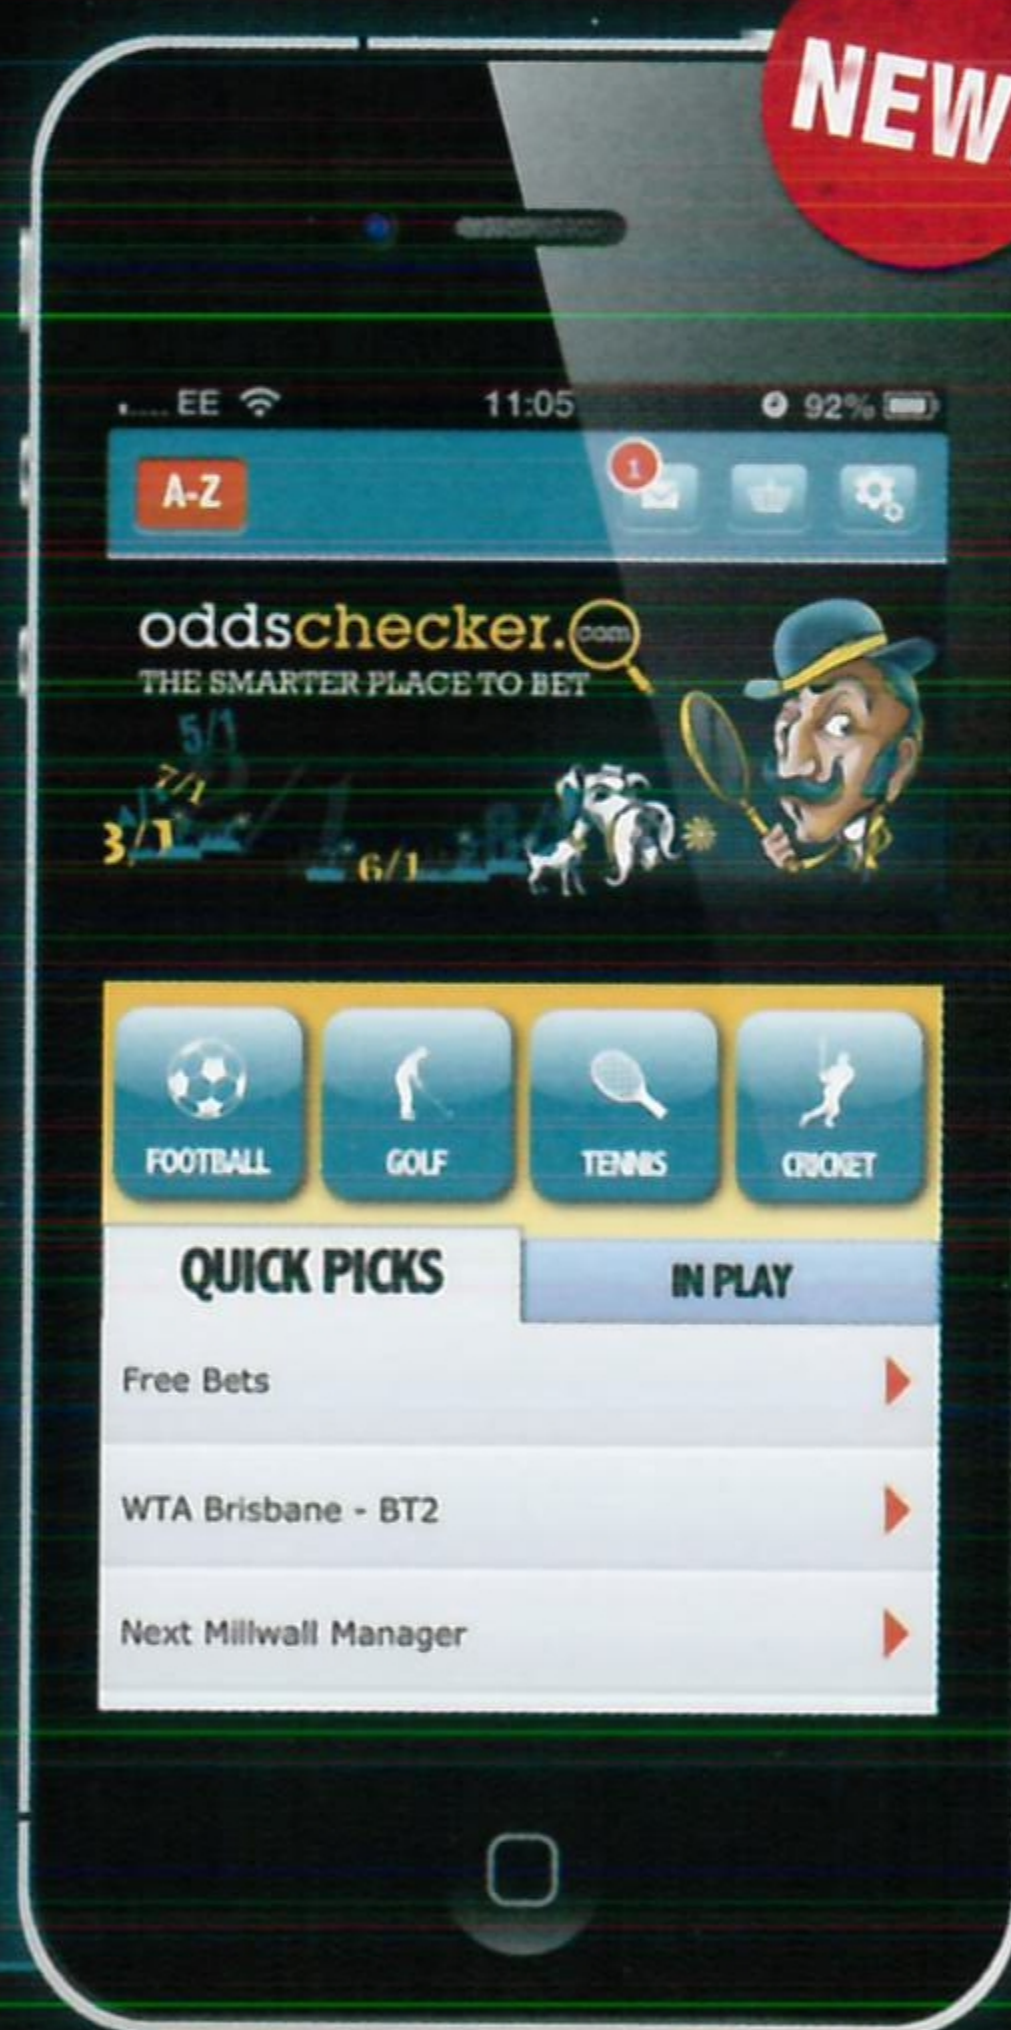

6.00pm – Arrived back at Waterfoot

PROVIDE A HOME FOR OUR FUTURE

The Huddersfield Town Academy is always looking to recruit the best young players – but now they are also looking for the best accommodation in the region too!

During the last two seasons the likes of Dane Philip Billing, Cumbrian Brad Carroll and Borehamwood-based Flo Bojaj have been recruited to supplement local youngsters in the Under-18 age group and Academy Manager Mark Lillis told GUAN that finding a local home for these incoming players is just as important as finding the players themselves.

“It might sound obvious, but the aim of the Academy to recruit the very best players. Our ultimate aim is to have players graduating from the Academy and making it into the First Team and to do that, the players joining the Academy have to be the best we can recruit.

“Obviously there is a focus on bringing local youngsters through, but to get the best there will also be a mixture of players recruited from further afield, which can mean abroad. Strategically, spreading our recruitment network has been one of the major growth areas at the Academy over the last 18 months.

“To be able to do this, we need the help of local families on the accommodation front and we’re holding a little recruitment drive on that front at the moment.

“Although I’m older than the players, I experienced this myself before joining Huddersfield Town as Academy Manager; I spent eight months living away from my family in Spain. It is difficult, so we want to provide a comfortable environment.

“Finding the right accommodation for these players is vital. If we can show the players and their families where they will be staying, it can play a big part in their recruitment. It can also be crucial in their development if they have a welcoming environment to come back to after a hard day’s training.

“This is a commitment from the families involved. The environment, proximity to PPG Canalside and food is important and, in return, we expect a standard of behaviour from the players.”

If you are interested in helping the Academy accommodate players, please contact Academy Secretary Karen Jagger on 01484 468 201 or via email on karen.jagger@htaafc.com.

If you have any unsold tickets please return them ASAP so that they can be sold to other fans!

WELLS GETS BWF VOTE

Huddersfield Town's Blue and White Foundation members have voted striker Nahki Wells as their Player of the Month for March.

The striker has scored three goals during March including two in last two games. The Bermudian netted in the defeat to Blackburn, whilst also scoring in the draws with Middlesbrough and Reading.

BWF member Ian Treaty was picked out at random from those that voted for Wells and he will now get the chance to meet Nahki and present him with a bottle of champagne ahead of today's game.

MEMORABLE SEASONS

GOODBYE TO A LEGEND

THE 1933/34 SEASON

Although Town were in the running for a fourth League Championship for most of this season, eventually finishing second, the 1933/34 season is best known as the campaign when Town bid farewell to the iconic Billy Smith.

Town's all-time record appearance holder made his final appearance in the famous blue and white stripes midway through this season, fittingly getting on the scoresheet twice during a 4-1 away win at Sheffield United.

After the final whistle, Town fans came onto the pitch and chaired the legend off signing 'For he's a jolly good fellow' – not something you'd see today!

The Football League's President, John McKenna, presented Billy with a special long service medal following a glittering 21 year career in which he won practically every honour going. In total, he made 574 Town appearances, netting 126 goals and winning three Championships, one FA Cup and gaining three England caps in the process.

When Smith made his last Town appearance, Clem Stephenson's side were still well in the running for their first title since 1926 – despite also losing striker Dave Mangnall to Birmingham City in the same month. Even worse was to follow, with the unfortunate George McLean suffering a broken leg during a home match with Manchester City in March; he never recovered to play for the Club again.

The dream subsequently came to an end at title rivals Arsenal in late April, when a 3-1 defeat at Highbury effectively sealed the title for the Gunners. In the end Arsenal finished top of the English Football League with 59 points from 42 games, with the Terriers just three points behind in second place.

Despite that success, there was a shock FA Cup Fourth Round defeat at the hands of Division Three South opponents Northampton Town.

Town's 16 victories on home soil from this season remains an all-time joint Club record alongside the 1919/20, 1979/80 and 2003/04 campaigns.

CROOKSY

THIS SEASON HAS BEEN A LEARNING CURVE FOR MATT CROOKS – IN MORE THAN ONE SENSE.

The 20 year-old is still learning his trade as part of Steve Eyre's Under-21 Development Squad, but this season he's also had to learn to cope with adversity due to two spells on the sidelines.

After undergoing ankle surgery following an incident in a behind-closed-doors friendly against Bury that kept him out for two months, the Lascelles Hall native had another medical issue to overcome before making his return to the pitch this year.

"Before this season, I've not had longer than a fortnight on the sidelines. You do feel a little bit cooped up, but I think I managed it quite well. People who know me will know that things don't tend to get to me too much!" Matt told GUAH.

"The illness was pretty random. I was talking to (former Town teammate) Max Leonard and then the next thing I remember was waking up to be surrounded by ambulance staff. I vaguely remember getting in the ambulance and then being in the hospital.

"There was the chance that was a one-off, but then I had another fit in the gym at PPG Canalside and we decided to get some scans. It came out that I'm epileptic, so I take tablets to manage it every morning and night and it seems to have settled down."

Now he's fighting fit and recently travelled with the squad as the 19th man for the 1-1 draw at Reading. However, being a part of the First Team setup is no mystery to Matt, who first travelled as a teenager to Plymouth way back in 2010 before being named on the bench for an FA Cup game against Cambridge a few months later.

"It's strange, because my first taste of travelling with the squad was to Plymouth when I was only 16 years old.

Maybe I did get a bit complacent because I had achieved that so soon, but I know full well that you have to work hard to achieve things.

"The Club has moved forward from back then. We're in the Championship now and the quality of player, staff and facilities has shot up. It's a totally different club now, without meaning any disrespect to the people here in the past.

"Training next to the likes of Vaughany and Adam Clayton, you're bound to learn things; even watching them in games I pick things up that I could do. Only the other day Nick Colgan was talking to me about things I can do better and you have to listen to someone with his know-how and experience."

A midfielder by trade, 6' 4" tall Crooks has more recently featured at centre back for the Under-21 side.

"I used to joke about playing centre back because of my height, but since Steve asked me to play there in an Under-21 game at Sheffield Wednesday I've enjoyed it and I think I've done ok, although there is still a lot for me to learn. If the Manager came and asked me to play there for the First Team tomorrow, I'd jump at the chance!

"I just want to play as many games as I can between now and the end of the season, so hopefully I can remain fit. My contract is up in the summer, so I'm looking to impress."
